February 2006

Dear Patient:

In light of revised Cervical Cancer Screening Guidelines/Recommendations by the American Cancer Society (ACS) in November 2002 and the American College of Obstetrics and Gynecology (ACOG) in July 2003, we are pleased to inform you that our practice will be providing patients with a test, High-Risk HPV DNA, designed to complement the Pap test. According to the ACS and ACOG, the incorporation of this test for women age 30 and older will provide extremely valuable insight in the early detection of cervical cancer and its precursors.

You are probably familiar with the Pap test, but may not be familiar with the High-Risk HPV DNA test and the reasons why you should have this test performed along with your Pap test.

- HPV is a very common virus.
- Approximately 20 million people are currently infected with HPV. At least 50 percent of sexually active men and women acquire genital HPV infection at some point in their lives. By age 50, at least 80 percent of women will have acquired a genital HPV infection. About 6.2 million Americans get a new genital HPV infection each year. (Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, www.cdc.gov)
- Most women will successfully clear the virus soon after infection. If the virus isn't cleared by your immune system, it may cause abnormal changes to the cells of your cervix.
- The High-Risk HPV DNA test allows us to look for these abnormal cells indicating the possible presence of HPV, a virus that can progress to cervical cancer if undiagnosed or untreated.

We are aware that certain insurance plans will be reimbursing for this test, however, we cannot be sure your particular plan has included this test in your benefits.

- It is your responsibility to ascertain your plan coverage. The Current Procedural Terminology (CPT) Code for this test is 87621.
- We will try to help you with any questions you may have regarding your discussion with your insurance provider.

HPV testing is playing a growing role in cervical cancer screenings programs and our practice is committed to providing you with the latest advancements that are available.

Thank you,

Susan K. Mueller, M.D.
